Sweeping curves enable sophisticated comfort

Anchor Lounge Furniture
Designed by Jim Wright

Inspired by the twisting of wooden planks in traditional boathouses, Anchor's subtle and somewhat understated design is characterised by its wide base and sweeping curves integrated into the back.

Form has followed function to create a comprehensive product family, including a collection of versatile seating options for lounge and meeting applications, sitting effortlessly alongside elegant sofas. All of which work either independently or alongside each other to furnish a wide variety of today's work settings.

Anchor Lounge Furniture

A collection of contemporary and classic fabric choices, with either timber or metal bases, enables the individuality and character of each piece within the Anchor family to either make a visual statement or blend seamlessly with its environment.
