Enrich your Environment

Layout Workwall

As part of the Layout family, Workwall benefits from our wealth of knowledge and skill in producing systems furniture which started with the revolutionary Action Office system in 1968. Use Workwall to create welcoming private offices with storage and display space which complement the desking. Used in meeting rooms, Workwall can include integrated technology to support presentations and collaboration. In open plan settings, Workwall can be used as a way of integrating additional storage space into the landscape.

Sustainable Design

The impact our business has on the environment is an important concern to us, and our eco-inspired design approach advocates for the manufacture of better, more sustainable products. With this in mind, Layout Workwall, made from Melamine-Faced Chipboard (MFC) or veneer, is part of the closed-loop recycling process we operate in our Wiltshire factory. Herman Miller now ethically disposes of more than 1,000 tonnes of wood waste each year through this process, which converts the waste material back to raw material, allowing new particle board to be made over and over again. In addition, Workwall is up to 99 per cent recyclable which supports our aim to minimise the environmental impact of our product.

During closed-loop recycling wood waste is sent for reprocessing. The clean recycled wood is then used as part of the mix to make new particle board, which is then used to make more furniture, including Layout Workwall.

Combine Layout Workwall with a Layout Studio table to create an inspiring yet informative meeting room.

Integrate Layout Workwall with desking to create a refined private office with storage and display space.

Proudly on Display

Workwall transforms simple spaces into warm and welcoming private offices, practical meeting rooms or cosy havens. Use Workwall's open shelves, or flat surfaces, to display reference material, team achievements or decorative items.

Workwall's unique wall-mounted system also supports integrated power and technology allowing people to share digital content or connect with remote participants.

Part of the Family

The shared design with the rest of the Layout family enables Workwall to work in harmony with Layout Studio desks and meeting tables. A united aesthetic across the entire Layout family ensures Workwall enhances settings across the office landscape.
